

Patsy Stevens

Patsy Stevens is a senior manager for the Human Capital Leadership and Merit System Principles Division of the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) responsible for the new Government-wide program called Career Patterns. Patsy joined OPM two years ago after retiring from 25 years in the private sector. Her experience includes leadership roles at AT&T, NCR and Lucent Technologies and providing consulting support to clients such as The Executive Office of the President, Accenture and McKinsey. Her recent experience ranges from large-scale program management to business transformation and strategic planning. Patsy spent the last several years specializing in building high-performance organizations and joined OPM to advance the President's Management Agenda on the Strategic Management of Human Capital.
